Briefly

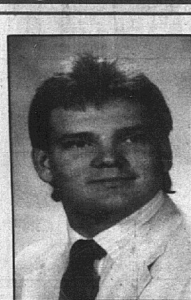

Benefit gospel singing planned

Benefit gospel music singing will be held at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 16, at the Sorento Elementary School gymnasium in Sorento. All proceeds from the event will go to a trust fund to benefit Gail Niedhardt, a young mother who is scheduled to undergo a bone marrow transplant. She has lived in the Poag Road area and is well known here. Persons who would like to contribute directly to the fund may mail contributions to the Gail Niedhardt Trust Fund, Mercantile Bank of Illinois, 200 West Third St., Alton, Ill. 62002.

Craft fair set

Handmade gifts created by 50 crafters will be available at a DARE benefit craft fair from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 16, at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave. Proceeds will go to the drug abuse education program at Granite City public and parochial schools. Items will include personalized shirts, country baskets, wooden shelves, ceramics, needlepoint, tape painting, decorative fans and grapevine wreaths.

Tip of the hat

After earning unprecedented high scores on a series of qualifying tests, Bradley Nelson of Granite City recently joined the U.S. Navy to pursue a career as a nuclear engineer. Nelson, a 1991 graduate of Granite City High School, recently reported to the Navy Training Center in Orlando, Fla. He is the son of Jim and Carol Nelson and Tom and Mary Fedak.

'Tis the season — already

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Scatterings of snow, ice on the pavement and frigid weather in recent days mean winter is closing in and Christmastime beckons. And beckon it does, if one goes visiting to local shops. To some people, the start of the Christmas season seems to have arrived a little early this year. Thanksgiving has yet to be celebrated. There are even a few Halloween pumpkin bags stuffed with leaves on lawns around town and a lone-some-looking bale of hay was seen on a front porch. Happily, most of the election signs have disappeared.

If you want to get into the Christmas spirit, try visiting Schermer's Garden Shop at 12th Street and Madison Avenue, Madison. "It's not too early," said Cherie Guithues of Collinsville. "I'm looking for a Thanksgiving centerpiece for my church and Christmas items for my home." Cherie, a nurse at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, had stopped by Schermer's after work to check out the holiday decorations. There is plenty to choose from inside and out at the garden center. Although there were still about two days of preparation work to be finished Friday, the welcome mat is out for shoppers, said Bill Schermer. (See SEASON, Page 3A)

Major area crimes up slightly Police blame sluggish economy, drug use

The number of major crimes reported last year in a majority of area communities was up over the year before, particularly in batteries and assaults, which followed a statewide trend. For all Madison County police jurisdictions, the total number of major crimes was 11,267, up slightly from 11,188 in 1989, according to the Illinois State Police annual crime statistics report. The report covers murder, criminal sexual assault, robbery, aggravated assault or battery, burglary, theft, motor vehicle theft and arson. Statewide, crimes in those categories jumped by 11.2 percent last year, the biggest annual increase in major crimes since the 1960s. Alton reported 2,865 major crimes last year, up 3 percent over the 2,722 reported in 1989. The biggest jump was in aggravated assaults and batteries, with 150 reports in 1990 compared with 101 in 1989. Burglaries jumped to 687 from 640, while the number of murders was six, up from five in 1989. Alton Police Chief Dennis Downey said he believed overall crime, including categories not in the State Police report, was down in the city. Some of the increase was a result of residents being encouraged to report crimes, Downey said, but he speculated that the increase in assaults and burglaries was a result of "increased usage of drugs and the economy may have something to do with that too." The biggest increase in Madison County last year was aggravated assaults and batteries with 600 reports compared with 418 in 1989. Major crimes reported in Greene County jumped 16.5 percent last year and were up 17.3 percent in Jersey County. Greene County reported 318 major crimes last year, compared with 273 the year before. Aggravated assaults and batteries more than doubled to 15, up from seven in 1989. Burglaries increased to 116 reports from 94 in 1989. Jersey County reported 596 major crimes last year compared with 508 in 1989. Reports of aggravated assaults and batteries increased to 25 compared with 14 in 1989, and 11 motor vehicle thefts were reported, up from none in 1989. (See CRIME, Page 10A)

Lead standards are disputed

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The scientific basis for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's proposal to spend billions of dollars for remediation of environmental lead — including a project here — is once again the subject of heated debate. According to experts, the average blood lead level in Americans has been drastically cut since the EPA phased out leaded gasoline and the Consumer Product Safety Commission limited lead content in residential paint. But a 1979 study and its follow-up suggest there is a correlation between even low levels of lead in the blood and health risk. That study has been the most recent subject of attack by the scientific community.

While the Centers for Disease Control, based in Atlanta, has over the years consistently lowered the level of blood lead considered "safe," the basis for its most recent revision in the definition of "lead poisoning" has been the subject of criticism in published scientific papers. The CDC on Oct. 7 officially lowered the threshold of blood lead considered safe from 25 micrograms of lead per deciliter of blood to 10 micrograms per deciliter. The change came in the midst of an Illinois Department of Public Health blood lead study of 850 residents of Granite City, Madison, Venice and Eagle Park in the area designated for lead cleanup in the U.S. EPA Taraco/NL Industries Record of Decision. (See LEAD, Page 10A)

Much poisoning called avoidable

Practicing good housekeeping techniques, providing nutritional meals and snacks and supervising children can go a long way in protecting a family from unnecessary lead poisoning, according to the Illinois Department of Public Health. The IDPH is in the process of preparing a guide suggesting everyday activities which can reduce exposure to lead. While everyone is exposed to lead at low levels it is found naturally in soil, water and vegetation due to weathering of the earth's crust — precautions can be taken to prevent exposure to higher doses that can cause serious health problems.

The IDPH suggestions include: Household activities — By encouraging family members to remove shoes upon entering the home, the amount of lead tracked in from outdoors can be significantly reduced. Areas where boots and shoes are stored should not be play areas for toddlers and children, and entrance mats are suggested, along with regular storage areas for shoes and boots. Frequent vacuuming of carpets, upholstery and rugs is suggested. But because conventional vacuums tend to disperse leaded dust into the air, where it can be (See POISONING, Page 10A)

2 are acquitted of home invasion here

Two Granite City men were acquitted of home invasion and other charges Friday by a jury in Madison County. The jury deliberated for about 90 minutes before clearing John Lindsay, 35, of the 3100 block of Jill Avenue and Edward H. Moad Jr., 24, of the 1900 block of Spruce Street, of all charges. The wrap-up of the case was delayed by a day after the Nov. 6 snowfall. The two were each charged with home invasion and aggravated battery with a firearm. Lindsay was also charged with unlawful possession of a weapon by a felon. The charges stem from an incident in which the pair went to the home of Michael P. Grizzard, 23, in the 2900 block of W. 20th Street, Granite City, shortly before 3 a.m. May 25. According to Grizzard, the two kicked in his door, prompting him to shoot Lindsay three times: once in each thigh and once in the right testicle. After a struggle, one of the men later shot Grizzard in the forearm. But defense attorney Thomas Hildebrand said that the two had gone to Grizzard's residence to try to talk him out of shooting another man to whom he allegedly owed money. "Why would you go to someone's house and break the door in if you know they have a loaded gun?" Hildebrand asked. "That's ridiculous. If anything, John Lindsay was the victim." Assistant State's Attorney Robert Trone, who tried the case, could not be reached for comment.

Police mum on Edwardsville killing

Elizabeth Kirts died of a gunshot wound in her Devon Court apartment in Edwardsville, but police are releasing no new details in the 85-year-old woman's death. "I wish there were something new," Edwardsville Police Chief Bennett Dickmann said. "We are doing a thorough job and that takes time." Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke said an autopsy Saturday found the cause of death, but declined to give details. "We are all incensed and continue to be incensed, first by the thought of murder and second, by such an elderly victim," Dickmann said. Investigators, including a state forensic specialist and Illinois State Police agents, were to compare results Tuesday afternoon and may release information about the weapon and the wound. Kirts' body was found by her daughter about 9:30 p.m. Friday after the woman failed to answer one of the daughter's daily telephone calls. She was pronounced dead at 9:55 p.m. Her apartment in the Esic Subdivision off Illinois 157 had been (See KILLING, Page 3A)

N.P. Veeder

N.P. Veeder, 81, retired steel firm chairman, dies

Nicholas P. Veeder, 81, retired president and chairman of Granite City Steel Co., died of cancer Saturday at St. Luke's Hospital in St. Louis County. Born June 3, 1910, in Pittsburgh, he joined the steel business in 1933 after graduating from Cornell University with a civil engineering degree. He came to Granite City Steel in January 1934 as an analyst in the chemical laboratory. Following eight years as assistant to the director of metallurgy and inspection, Veeder served as assistant superintendent of the company in 1942-43, production manager in 1943-45, works manager in 1945-49, operations vice president in 1949-56, member of the board of directors starting in 1953, executive vice president in 1956-57, president in 1957-58, chairman of the board and president in 1958-69, and chairman and chief executive officer from 1968 until retiring in 1975. Veeder invented Strongbar, a process for making galvanized, corrugated roofing and siding. In the 1960s, he led a $70 million expansion program that made Granite City Steel one of the most modern producers of flat-rolled steel. After Granite City Steel became a division of National Steel Corp. in 1971, he served on the National Steel board of directors and executive committee. Veeder also served on the boards of directors of the First Granite City National Bank, American Zinc Co., Mercantile Trust Co., Potl Industries, General Steel Industries, American Iron and Steel Institute and Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis. He was the first president of the Regional Industrial Development Corp., which later became part of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association. A longtime member of Civic Progress, Veeder chaired the (See VEEDER, Page 10A)

If truth-labeling is good, why stop with only food?

You may have missed the big news last week when the federal government proposed new rules governing the way food is labeled and promoted. Speaking as a well-known Consumer Advocate, I can assure you it's good news.

Take this bag of Kruncher's Potato Chips sitting—for demonstration purposes—on the big desk here at Consumer Advocate world headquarters. It is a shiny, spiffy black bag containing one ounce of potato chips. The bag also contains the following information:

- These are not wimpy chips.
- They are cooked in peanut oil for super good taste.
- They are extra thick and hearty and bursting with with big potato taste.

The chips contain 150 calories, two grams of protein, 16 grams of carbohydrate, 9 grams of fat, 170 milligrams of sodium and 310 milligrams of potassium. It does not tell me what a gram is.

- Eating these chips would afford me anywhere from zero to 6 percent of my recommended daily allowance of certain basic nutrients.

- They contain no cholesterol or preservatives.
- I shouldn't fool around with weak-kneed chips any more.
- Instead, I should sink my teeth into Kruncher's!

This is a lot of information to digest, but thanks to the Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Agriculture, I'll have even more information when the new rules go into effect in 1993.

I'll learn how much fiber is in them; how many of those 150 calories come from fat; how much of that fat is total fat and how much is the more evil saturated fat; how many total carbohydrates they contain and how many complex carbohydrates, and so forth.

Now, even though I already knew that regardless of how extra thick and hearty the chips are, they are not particularly good for me, I'm glad to have this extra information. The new regulations make a ridiculous claim that instead of costing $1.7 billion, the new regulations will actually save money, shouldn't that statement be labeled:

Warning: This statement is preposterous and should be read strictly as a public relations gimmick. We know you're going to eat the food, regardless of how much saturated fat is in it and probably die early as a result.

The truth in labeling law should be extended to all branches of the federal government. The Congress, for example, is a public relations gimmick. The new regulations, 100 in the Senate and 435 in the House, most of whom are deeply indebted to private interests. They are likely to raise their own pay, kite checks and raise taxes without warning. They get discounted salaries. Take everything they say with a grain of salt, unless you've been advised by your doctor to restrict sodium intake.

And why limit it to government? Shouldn't everything we consume be governed by truth in labeling? Consider the local baseball team:

Warning: Do not get too excited by last season's second-place finish. We did not resign the top RBI man. The shortstop's nose is out of joint. Who knows if Magrane and Werrell can come back? De Leon is still an enigma. We're one throw in Lee Smith's elbow from finishing fifth.

Or how about television news? We're all news consumers, so shouldn't we know what the news contains?

Ingredients: One avuncular anchorman who has to squint at the TelePrompTer. One perky but suitably somber anchorwoman. Three rookie street reporters so desperate for air-time they're liable to say anything. One meteorologist with a back-dropped painted to look like real computers. One eager-beaver sportscaster trying hard to sound like Chris Berman.

And what about this column? Aren't you entitled to know what goes into every rich, delicious nugget of fact and opinion that I've sprinkled into it? I'd tell you, but first I've got to get the potato chip crumbs out of the keyboard.

Kevin Horrigan is co-host of "The Morning Meeting" on KMOX Radio from 6:30 to 11:00 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Police log

Burglar obtains tools

Dayeva White of the 1700 block of Poplar Street arrived home about 6:15 p.m. Nov. 1 and found the rear door open at her home. The door and frame were damaged, apparently by a burglar. A tool box and miscellaneous machine tools inside, valued at $200, were taken. Damage to the door amounted to $100.

Arrested for battery

Arthur Cunha Jr., 32, of the 2100 block of Cleveland Boulevard was arrested at 10:06 p.m. Nov. 4 and charged with battery. Police dispatched to the Illini Motel, 1100 Niedringhaus Ave., were told by Lynn Earnest, 36, of Cleveland Boulevard that Cunha had scratched her face while hitting her. He was released on a notice to appear in court.

Woman accuses another

Levyona N. Howland, 24, of the 3600 block of Kirkpatrick Homes was arrested at 6:13 p.m. Nov. 4 and charged with battery. Diana Charlton, 34, of the 3700 block of Kirkpatrick Homes told police Howland came to her apartment, began yelling and pushed her, causing her to hit her head against the building.

11 named in warrants

Eleven area residents have been named in warrants issued by Madison County State's Attorney William Haine during the weeks of Nov. 4-8 and Oct. 28-Nov. 1.

John Pritchard, 44, of the 600 block of Salver Street, Venice, was charged with burglary. Venice police allege that Pritchard burglarized Blair Elementary School in a Nov. 3 incident. Bond was set at $50,000.

Larry L. Crews, 26, of the 2100 block of Benton Street, was charged with committing aggravated battery with a firearm. Pontoon Beach police allege that Crews shot Kenneth Crone in the hand with a .22-caliber rifle on Nov. 2. Bond was set at $75,000.

Brenda Hagopian, 18, of the 2400 block of Grand Avenue was charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance. Granite City police allege that Hagopian possessed diazepam, a controlled substance, on Sept. 21. Bond was set at $10,000.

Derrick O. Johnson, 28, and Wayne Jacob, 25, both of East St. Louis, were each charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance. Venice police allege that the pair possessed less than 15 grams of cocaine in a Nov. 7 incident. Both were being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $15,000 bond each.

Dennis L. Willoughby, 27, of the 2100 block of State Street was charged with retail theft second subsequent offense. Granite City police allege that Willoughby took a Sharp portable cassette player and D-cell batteries from the K mart store in a Nov. 7 incident. The items were valued at less than $150. According to the warrant, Willoughby was convicted of larceny in Orlando, Fla., in April 1990. He was being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Granite City

Charlton said Howland then hit her on the face and head with a fist.

Howland was arrested at home. She was released after posting $52 cash bail.

Burglar obtains 4 guns

Glen Lemp, 31, of the 2700 block of Denver Street reported that his home was burglarized sometime between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Nov. 6.

Items taken included two video cassette recorders, three televisions, a stereo system, a police scanner radio, a pool stick, a bed comforter, a portable radio, a Smith Wesson .38-caliber handgun, a five-shot .38-caliber handgun, a .22-caliber automatic rifle with telescope, and a shotgun.

Four charges are filed

An accident in the 2200 block of Missouri Avenue at 11:32 p.m. Nov. 8 resulted in four charges being filed against the driver, Glendell R. Winter, 28, of the 2400 block of Illinois Avenue.

He said he was driving his car south on Missouri Avenue and struck a sedan parked at the side of the roadway. The car was owned by Regina Collins of Belleville.

A partly empty pint bottle of liquor and two empty bottles were on the driver's side floor of the vehicle, police said.

Winter was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, illegal transportation of alcohol, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and failure to display a valid insurance card.

He posted $102 bail and his driver's license and was released.

Hurt as truck hits tree

Stephen W. Creek, 23, of Collinsville was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident at 1:40 a.m. Nov. 8 after the pickup truck he was driving struck a tree.

Creek sustained an injury but declined medical attention. A passenger in the vehicle, Billy Fulton, 22, of Collinsville had been taken by a friend to the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center when police arrived at the crash scene.

Creek was driving north on Monroe Street and began to turn east onto East 23rd Street when the vehicle slid on icy pavement and he lost control of the truck, striking a tree, he told officers.

Felony warrant served

Jeffrey Earl Stufflebean, 17, of the 2200 block of Grand Avenue was arrested at 4:42 p.m. Nov. 8 when seen by an officer who was on patrol at Niedringhaus and Madison avenues.

Stufflebean was charged in a felony warrant with aggravated criminal sexual abuse. Stufflebean appeared before a judge at the Granite City Court. Bond was set at $75,000 and a mittimus document was issued.

Burglar ransacks home

Donald F. Lucido of the 2200 block of Grand Avenue arrived home at 4 p.m. Nov. 8 and found the residence had been entered. Items were scattered on the living room floor.

Area war dead remembered — A Veterans Day wreath placed in front of the Greater Granite City War Memorial signifies the remembrance of those fallen in the service of their country. The wreath was placed at the memorial by AMVETS post 51 and its auxiliary. This year Veterans Day services were held Sunday at St. John's cemetery on Nameoki Road; representatives from the area's Veterans' organizations participated.

Missouri following Illinois on yard waste

Starting Jan. 1, Missouri residents will no longer be allowed to send yard waste to landfills. Though that new requirement may sound like quite a burden, Show-Me State residents need only look to the east to see how well the system can work.

Landfills in Illinois stopped taking yard waste in regular trash pickups on July 1, 1990. The summertime start-up in Illinois had an immediate impact on residents who had always bagged their grass clippings and had put them out at the curb with regular household trash.

By starting in the winter, Missouri's law likely will not have to face some of the problems the Illinois law did.

The first day that haulers in Illinois did not pick up the materials, several residents brought the bagged materials to the company's landfill facility and dropped them at the front gate, one spokesman for a trash hauler told a class at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville last spring.

"It's gotten much better since then," he said.

Don Zykan, vice president and Illinois district manager for Browning Ferris Industries in Belleville, said that once Missouri residents start mowing their lawns next spring they will have to look for outlets — like backyard composting or optional yard waste pickup — that Illinois residents have come accustomed to.

"I think it's a situation that people believe they need a service until it's not available anymore," Zykan said.

Most haulers in the Metro

CLIPPING THE WASTE

East offer weekly pick-up of "yard waste only" that the haulers take to their landfill facilities for composting.

Zykan said he expected most landfill operators in Missouri would offer the curbside lawn clipping service and a compost pile at their facilities similar to BFI's Belleville Modern Landfill.

"There is probably going to be service available but it is going to cost. What the people are doing is paying for convenience," Zykan said.

About 90 percent of BFI customers pay for the weekly service, Zykan said. Demand for the service has leveled off recently, he said, with customers taking their own measures for dealing with yard waste. "People are probably composting the waste themselves, or using mulching mowers or just not bagging the clippings."

Next week "Clipping The Waste" will focus on how residents can construct their own backyard compost facilities.

Killing

A downstairs neighbor reported hearing noises and stomping like someone was having a party, authorities said.

A roadblock Saturday produced some information, along with a door-to-door investigation and information from people calling in with ideas and suggestions, Dickmann said.

"We're coordinating with the State Police and want to ensure we're communicating well. We want to be sure the right hand knows what the left hand is doing," Dickmann said.

Police were looking for evidence to determine if someone broke into Kirt's apartment.

"One human life is certainly no more valuable than another, but we all agree it seems that much worse when the victim is at an age when she's so vulnerable and, unfortunately, easy to take advantage of," Dickmann said.

A toy train engine and tender, occupied by Santa, crosses a plank between the rooftop dormer windows at the garden center. And Chopper, a well-mannered, brown tortoise-shell cat, sits on the countertop near the front door, waiting to be petted by customers.

"Chopper walked in off the street one day three years ago, caught a mouse right away and my father (Leo Schermer) said 'she's hired,'" Bill Schermer said. "She's been here ever since."

Once you get past Chopper, you can enter the Christmas tree alcove and become surrounded by beautiful trees, varying in size and price range. "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" music was playing.

A snow-flocked majestic pine tree decorated with plaid bows and a multitude of colored lights immediately captured one's attention, along with a six-foot Norway fir adorned with red velvet bows and white flower petals, and a spruce loaded with apples and strawberries. All are cleverly crafted artificial trees.

If you want to change the color scheme of your Christmas tree and give it a new look, this year is the time, Schermer advised.

"Christmas light sets are really cheap this year. Lights that we sold for $3 two years ago are now selling for $3," he said. "I can't explain why the lower cost," he added.

Live poinsettias will be coming to the garden shop the week of Thanksgiving.

Pet owners are invited to bring their pets for a "photo with Santa" session on Saturday, Nov. 23.

"I was surprised last year. We had 72 people bring their pets in for photos, so we decided to do it again," Schermer said.

If you are not into decorating, the garden shop offers many ideas for Christmas gifts, from musical wind chimes to hanging baskets filled with live plants, brightly painted Disney characters made of concrete for the garden, snow-tipped deer and fancy brass horns.

Don't forget the wild-bird seed and the craft items.

Spring can't be too far away, can it? There's also a great selection of Holland bulbs available at the garden shop.

Two lovely young ladies were pressed to greet patrons Friday outside the front door at Jan's Hallmark in the Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center.

The thermometer stood at about 22 degrees, but their smiles were warm and friendly.

Heather Riggs and Amy Reiter, Granite City High School freshmen and members of the Marching Warriors' flag squad, were seeking donations to help the Marching Warrior Band make a trip to the Gator Bowl.

Neither girl thought it was too early to start Christmas shopping.

Inside the store, Christmas was everywhere. Eyes focused immediately on an extra special Christmas tree ornament — the Starship Enterprise, complete with flashing lights.

Loveable teddy bears, raccoons, reindeer and rabbits peeked out of Christmas stockings.

Keepsake tree ornaments abounded, from Baby's First Christmas to commemorative University of Illinois and University of Missouri ornaments fashioned in the appropriate school colors.

Nativity figurines exquisitely designed in crystal were arranged on a shelf, while a nearby display of Hallmark's distinctive Christmas cards reminded shoppers it is time to select cards for impending holidays.

Other special holiday cards for family and friends created splashes of color and carried messages ranging from sentimental to humorous, depending on one's taste.

Jan's is offering two contests to friends stopping by — a free turkey-a-day through Nov. 25 (turkeys to be given away), and dinner-for-two at Ravanelli's if you guess how much Indian corn is displayed.

Brass-tone deer, holiday wreaths, pine cones and beautiful wrappings for gift packages set the holiday scene. And the aroma of Winter Bouquet-scented potpourri was hard to resist.

Speaking of aroma, Mrs. Seibold's Bake Shop on Madison Avenue had the aroma of an old-fashioned country kitchen the other morning when a visitor stopped to pick up taffy apple and cherry pies and a German chocolate chiffon cake.

Holiday garlands were placed around the display cases and the cookies and cakes were deliciously tempting in bright colors. Someone had climbed high to loop Christmas greenery around the ceiling at Hooks Drug Store in the Bellemore Village Shopping Center.

A woman shopper encountered there was in a hurry. She'd stopped in for birthday wrapping paper, but said she would probably pick up some Christmas gift boxes and holiday wrapping paper at the same time.

Boy Scouts Wes Evans and

William Werner were waiting outside the Big Lots store in the Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center. Their eyes tracked in shopper from the moment she got out of her car.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 122 at Coolidge Junior High School, the boys are quite the salesmen with their boxes of chocolate bars. They were selling the candy as a troop project. "I think you'd like the caramel," Wes said, stomping his feet against the cold while reaching for the candy, accepting the money and looking around for another easy mark.

"They've got lots of good stuff in there," Wes said, pointing inside the Big Lots store. "I come here all the time and they have all kinds of Batman stuff," he added.

A slightly older and taller boy helping the other two boys commented about their being good stereo equipment in the store.

"I'm into stereos," he said quickly, setting himself apart from all that Batman stuff. Sorry Mom, he didn't give his name.

Seedling trees about 18 to 20 inches tall, minus the roots, were labeled America Tree Co. Apparently grown in Mexico, according to the label, the seedling trees looked green and healthy and were selling for $4.99 each.

"You could put them in a plant pot for Christmas and then plant them outdoors," another customer said.

Millie Woods was looking at toys for her grandchildren. "You never know what they'll want," she said.

She went back to inspect "Vance the Talking Pig" while also eyeing several fancy toys guns, including a "Radical Recoiler."

The store had a big sign listing its extended shopping hours for the holiday season.

Counting today, there are only 42 days left until Christmas Day.

That's right. It's time to start.

New state college savings plan established

Saving for college should become a little easier for middle-income Illinois families under a program introduced by the Illinois Student Assistance Commission.

The program, the Illinois College Accounts Network, or I CAN, offers three savings and investing plans developed by private companies for the new state venture.

"It's a private/state partnership. It's the first of its kind that I'm aware of," said Robert Clement, director of the ISAC public information office.

Although the program is targeted at middle-income families, anyone can participate, Clement said, and participants can choose to put their money in any or all of the three options.

Up to $2,000 earned annually in each fund is exempt from Illinois income tax, Clement said.

If the money is not used to pay for college education, the tax exemption may not be claimed, he said. Earnings are subject to federal taxes.

The state also acts as a sort of overseer of the program, offering families some assurance that their investments are sound. However, the state has no direct involvement in the investment program, Clement said.

I CAN is seen as a complement to the state's existing College Savings Bond Program and to the Illinois Opportunity Loan Program, which is designed to provide low-interest loans to students from middle-income families.

While wealthy families can afford to send their children to college, students from low-income families face increasing difficulty in meeting college costs, officials said.

According to national projections provided by the ISAC, by the year 2000 it will cost $10,000 for tuition and room and board for one year at a public college or university. The cost of a year at a private institution is projected to be more than $24,000.

Memorial tree at hospital

During the first week of December, a memorial tree will be set up at the Madison Avenue entrance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City.

Associates, visitors and patients may write the name of a loved one they would like remembered on a dove, which will be on a table near the tree. There is no charge for the doves.

"Since the holidays are very different for those who have lost someone, this could be their own little ceremony," said Nancy Kaprelian, Hospice of Madison County coordinator of volunteers/public relations.

"We advise them to make changes in ceremonies during the holidays. They need to make their own rituals or do something to memorialize their loved one. Many people put up a stocking in their home for the person they've lost. This is their way of dealing with grief."

Doves will be available until Christmas, and the tree, which will be visible from the street, will remain on display until after the first of the year.

"We are using doves not only because it is SEMC's logo, but because it is a symbol of peace. 'We hope the tree will bring peace of heart to the bereaved. For some people, placing the dove on the tree is part of closure; they feel it is something tangible. They can see the name each time they walk by the tree,' Kaprelian said.

Hospice will be selling Light Up a Life sweatshirts in Bonaventure's Cafeteria beginning the first week of December.

The sweatshirts are $20 and will be available during lunch and dinner hours one day a week.

Madison board elects Newsome

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

James "Ed" Newsome was elected president of the Madison Board of Education at the board's reorganization meeting Thursday night.

Newsome, a board member for 13 years, is superintendent of the Madison County Jail and a former detective with the Madison County Sheriff's Department. He succeeds John Hamm III as president.

Hamm, a member of the Madison School Board since 1985, had served as president for the past five years. He also is a 3rd Ward alderman in Madison, an elected post he has held since 1987.

Billie Bosworth, a board member since 1978, was elected vice president. Also nominated for the job was Wilbur Owens, a member of the board since 1987. Bosworth succeeds Newsome as vice president.

Elected by acclamation were new board member Sharon Cass as secretary and Edmund Warchol, a board member since 1983, who was named treasurer. Cass replaces Bruce Trotts as board secretary. Trotts did not seek re-election to the board.

Voting for Newsome as president were Bosworth, Warchol, Cass and Newsome. Hamm tallied votes from Owens, Suzanne M. Skoklo and his own.

The same board members elected Bosworth over Owens. Owens was nominated for the secretary's job but declined the nomination.

Newsome received congratulations from his fellow board members and Madison Superintendent of Schools Dan Kostencik and Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols and his son, Tyrone Echols Jr., who were in the audience.

Ballots cast in the Nov. 5 election were canvassed and officially accepted by the board. The vote totals for the four-year terms were:

Wilbur Owens, 252; Edmund Warchol, 239; and Sharon Cass, 239. Warchol and Owens are incumbents.

Suzanne M. Skoklo, who was appointed to the board earlier this year, won an unexpired two-year term, receiving 223 votes. There were no opposing candidates in the election of board members.

Prior to the board's reorganization, Bosworth sought to change the policy of paying the board member who serves as secretary.

"We've asked all our employees to give us ideas about saving money. I believe it should be the same thing with this board," she said.

"I think the pay should be dropped for the secretary," Bosworth said.

"We've already reduced it from $2,400 to $1,200 to $500 a year and the secretary has to do more work than any other board member," Newsome said. He added that should the secretary not attend the meetings, he or she should not get paid.

Owens agreed with Bosworth, commenting, "Usually the secretary doesn't do that much."

Skoklo asked if the person in the secretary's position just takes the notes at the meetings. Kostencik replied, "Officially there are other items you (the secretary) have to sign off throughout the year. A majority of the work, however, is done at this table."

The motion to eliminate the secretary's salary failed to get sufficient votes.

The position as board secretary is rotated each year among board members.

Newsome agreed to continue as Madison's special education representative to the Special Education Region I board.

New committee appointments were made by Newsome. They include:

Building and security — Owens, Skoklo and Warchol; finance and budget — Bosworth, Hamm and Cass; personnel — Owens, Warchol and Bosworth; cafeteria — Skoklo, Hamm and Cass; safety — Owens, Hamm and Bosworth; negotiations — Hamm, Owens and Bosworth; transportation — Hamm, Cass and Warchol; and supplies and textbooks — Skoklo, Cass and Owens.

Media celebrities lined up for Newsboys Day

By Jean Abernathy
Correspondent

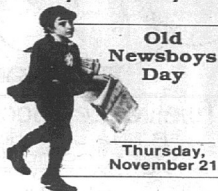

The 1991 Old Newsboys Day campaign is receiving overwhelming support from the local broadcast media. Many radio and television stations plan to have on-air personalities take to the streets with thousands of other volunteers on Nov. 21 to hawk the special editions of the Suburban Journals to raise money for local children's charities. Some radio stations are even planning live broadcasts from what are expected to be chilly Old Newsboys Day posts on corners throughout the metropolitan area.

Well-known broadcast journalists from KMOV-TV (Channel 4) will man the corner of Market Street and Memorial Drive. Up the street, at the corner of Market and 10th streets, will be a crew from KSDK-TV (Channel 5). Further west, at Hampton and Oakland avenues, a team of Old Newsboys from KTVF-TV (Channel 2) will peddle the Journal.

Radio stations have jumped on this holiday tradition in record numbers this year. This will be the first year for Chris Davis and KSTL-AM (680) to participate. Davis reports that he is anxious to nab motorists as they come off the bridge at Martin Luther King Boulevard and Washington Avenue.

WKXX-FM-KIX 104 plans a live broadcast at broadcast at Plaza Goldtower. In Alton, Ill., WBZG-AM (1570) will also broadcast live from the corner of College and Main.

Personalities from KUSA-AM (330) plan to live up the corner in front of Dave's Brew and Vites in St. Charles. Joanie Manley, an employee of the restaurant, coordinates all the efforts at the corner and pledges to raise more than $1,000.

WIL Radio (1430 AM, 92.3 FM) will have two locations. Debbie Conners will be at Hardee's at 4699 Gravois in St. Louis and Mark Langston will be at the Hardee's at 1016 S. Fifth Street in St. Charles.

A crew of familiar names and voices from KMJM-FM—Magic 108—will heat things up at the corner of DeBaliviere Avenue and Delmar Boulevard. Across town, in Clayton, KEZK Radio (590 AM, 102.5 FM) has enlisted to help at Bemiston Avenue and Clayton Road.

Those who want to talk to Charles Geers of WGNU-AM (920) will find him on Old Newsboys Day at the corner of Pershing Avenue and Union Boulevard. WGW-AM (770) will have two Old Newsboys crews, one at Carondelet Avenue and Hanley Road and the other helping at Forsyth Boulevard and Hanley Road.

Manning a corner in north St. Louis County, W. Dunn Road and West Florissant Avenue, will be a team from KCFV-FM (89.5).

Arrest warrant is issued for St. Ellen Mine owner

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

A $25,000 bond was set and an arrest warrant issued Friday for St. Ellen Mine owner Darrell Davis Sr. after he failed to pay a $100 a day fine mandated by Associate Judge Robert LeChien. LeChien also issued a temporary restraining order forbidding the transfer, approval for transfer or recording of any deed which has to do with St. Ellen Mine.

Davis of Mount Vernon has been ordered to appear at a 1:30 p.m. hearing Nov. 18 to explain why he has not paid the fine.

LeChien ordered the fine to force Davis and mine co-owner Norman Zaltsman of St. Louis to make steps toward ending pollution at the site.

Assistant State's Attorney Dennis Hatch requested the actions Friday after he learned that Davis had voted to transfer part ownership of the mine to Norma Davis, also of Mount Vernon, for $10.

Norma Davis then attempted to record the deed to the property on Friday, according to information in Hatch's motion. Hatch said Richard Weimuenster, director of mapping and plating for St. Clair County, notified the state's attorney of the move.

If the property were transferred, Hatch said the county could suffer injury, loss or damage because:

The county has agreed to accept ownership of the mine.

The county still may seek fines, costs or sanctions against defendants.

And Abandoned Mined Lands Reclamation Council has done planning and spent funds to reclaim the property.

In addition, Hatch said the transfer violates an Oct. 9 court order issued by LeChien which required Darrell Davis to call a meeting of St. Clair Energy and vote to give the property to St. Clair County.

The county filed a notice of intent Nov. 4 to take title to the property. The title change is expected to speed up the cleanup project proposed by the reclamation council.

Hatch also asked that Norma Davis and St. Clair Energy Inc. the corporation run by Darrell Davis and Zaltsman which allegedly owns the property, be added as defendants in legal actions concerning the mine.

Repellents are recalled

The active ingredient in several common insect repellents has recently been recalled.

The recall followed a warning from the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The recalled products are: 6-12 Plus Insect Repellent Stick; 6-12 Plus Insect Repellent Liquid; Off! Insect Repellent IV; 6100 Formula 2 Fly and Mosquito Repellent Gel; Johnson Wax 6017 Formula 10 Insect Repellent; and BF-100 Blackfly Repellent Solution.

Health officials urge consumers to check the brand names of any insect repellents they might have on hand and discard them if they are on the recall list.

The banned insect repellents all contain the active ingredient 2-ethyl-1, 3-hexanediol, also known as EHD.

ABOUT YOUR FEET

Your feet deserve a specialist of their own!

Dr. Jeffrey Boberg
Diplomate, American Board of Podiatric Surgery

DRY SKIN

Dry skin is probably the most common skin malady, affecting nearly everyone at some point in their daily lives. Aside from an annoying itch, painful cracks or fissures often develop on the palms and soles. Dry skin can be caused from a variety of reasons: diabetes, kidney disease, varicose veins and eczema to name a few. However, on the foot the most common cause of dry, itching, flaking skin is either from a chronic type of athlete's foot or due to a loss of natural oils in the skin which help to keep it moist and supple. If the causative agent is a fungal infection (athlete's foot) no amount of moisture will be effective. Once properly diagnosed, this form of athlete's foot will respond to therapy such as antifungal tablets, not to creams, powders or sprays.

Loss of natural oils and the body's ability to keep skin moist is often a seasonal problem. The cool, dry air of the fall and winter seasons supplemented by forced hot air and heaters cause rapid evaporation of the skin moisture. Frequent hand washing and foot soaks worsen the problem by removing the natural lubricate from the skin.

Treatment is directed at removing the cause and then rehydrating the skin. Foot soaks, prolonged bathing and the use of hot water must be eliminated or at least minimized. Hand lotions and petroleum jelly (vaseline) are occasionally effective. The best lotions are hydropolitic; they attract moisture in the air and penetrate the skin the deepest. These products usually contain urea and can be purchased with or without a prescription.

Larry Hudgins

Larry Vernon Hudgins, 50, of Granite City died Saturday, Nov. 9, 1991, at Metropolitan Medical Center North in Normandy, Mo. Mr. Hudgins was born Aug. 31, 1941, in Florida, Ill.

Survivors include his wife, Chintana (Pongpat) Hudgins; one daughter, Paula; his mother, Elsie Louise (Fitzgerald) Hudgins; two brothers, Dennis and Morris Hudgins; and four sisters, Barbara Sneed, Janet Miller, Karen Danielson and Sherry Reese.

He was preceded in death by his father, Charles Vernon Hudgins.

Visitation was held Tuesday at Hutchens Mortuary, 675 Graham Road, Florissant, Mo., where services will be conducted at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday) by the Rev. Vernon Covington. Burial will be at Jefferson Barracks National Cemetery, St. Louis, Mo.

Michael Mathews

Michael (Schalk) Mathews, 30, of Denver, formerly of Granite City, died at 2 a.m. Friday, Nov. 8, 1991.

Mr. Mathews was born Oct. 9, 1961, in Granite City. He resided in Granite City for 19 years and Denver 11 years.

He was a construction worker and form setter for 10 years and was of the Protestant faith.

Survivors include his wife, Melva Kay (Jacobson) Mathews, whom he married May 5, 1987, in Granite City; four daughters, Cassandra Mathews, Carrie Mathews, Sabrina Mathews and Ashley Mathews, all of Denver; one son, Michael James Mathews, II, of Denver; his parents, Joe and Geraldine Schalk, both of Granite City; three brothers and four sisters.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Horan-McConaty Funeral Home in Granite City.

Memorials are suggested for a Family Trust Fund set up at Horan-McConaty Funeral Home, 1091 S. Colorado Blvd., Denver, Colo. 80227.

Anna Ramsey

Anna M. (Doerner) Ramsey, 78, of Edwardsville died Tuesday, Sunday, Nov. 10, 1991, at University Manor Nursing Home in Edwardsville. She had been ill since February 1990.

Mrs. Ramsey was born Sept. 15, 1913, in Granite City. She was a retail clerk for Hub Drug Store in

Lead

Preliminary results of that study show five of those 850 individuals tested had blood lead levels above the 25 micrograms per deciliter threshold, and 40 more tested above the new 10 micrograms per deciliter threshold, according to Tom Shafer of IDPH.

But according to detractors, the CDC redaction is based largely on the results of an allegedly flawed 1979 study, conducted by Dr. Herbert Needleman of the University of Pittsburgh, and its follow-up report, published last year in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The (Needleman) study is a primary basis for EPA and the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry's statements to the effect that (elevated) blood lead levels... will produce a four point (Intelligence Quotient) loss, according to Dr. Claire Ernhart of Case Western Reserve in Cleveland and Dr. Sandra Scarr of the University of Virginia.

In the follow-up report, Needleman states that children with higher lead levels are seven times more likely to drop out of high school and six times more likely to have significant reading problems.

"These studies are given considerable weight in the documentation for the CDC redaction," according to Ernhart and Scarr in a paper attacking the credibility of Needleman's study.

Ernhart and Scarr were

Granite City for 25 years.

A member of Holy Family Catholic Church, she also held membership in the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union.

Survivors include two daughters, Judith Novich of Granite City and Mary Lou Ammons of Camden, Ohio; two sisters, Catherine Jacobs of Chicago and Elvera Stagner of Euless, Texas; 10 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Paul F. Ramsey, who died Sept. 14, 1976; one son, Paul Ramsey, who died Oct. 2, 1976; and her parents, Joseph and Anna (Fisher) Doerner.

Visitation will be from 3 to 8 p.m. today (Wednesday) at Irwin Chapel, 3900 Maryville Road, Granite City. Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Thursday at Holy Family Catholic Church, 2606 Washington Ave. in Granite City, with the Rev. Casey Kicmal officiating. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery, Edwardsville.

Masses to the church are suggested as memorials.

George Peart

George M. Peart, 76, of Cahokia died Sunday, Nov. 10, 1991, at his residence.

Mr. Peart was born Jan. 18, 1915, in St. Louis. He retired from American Steel Foundries in Granite City and was a former St. Louis city police officer.

Survivors include his wife, Melva "Dotie" (Sinbel) Peart, and a daughter, Sharon "Cookie" Dodd of St. Louis.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Jesse and Clara (Hildebrandt) Peart, and two brothers, Jesse Peart and Robert Peart.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Braun Colonial Funeral Home in Cahokia by the Rev. Robert Walker officiating. Burial was at Lake View Memorial Gardens in Belleville.

Memorials are suggested for the American Heart Association.

Carol Roberson

Carol J. (Berry) Roberson, 53, of Granite City died Monday, Nov. 11, 1991, at her home after she suffered a sudden illness.

Born Dec. 16, 1932, in Granite City, she was a lifelong resident. She was a homemaker and a member of First Presbyterian Church in Granite City.

Survivors include her husband,

John "Bud" Roberson, whom she married Nov. 22, 1949, in Granite City; one daughter, Cindy Ann Kirschner of Granite City; one brother, John Berry of Hastings, Mich.; one sister, Dorothy Hays of Collinsville; and three grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Clarence and Bertha (Turner) Berry, and two brothers, George and Harold Berry.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road, Granite City, 676-4321.

Nicholas Veeder

Nicholas P. Veeder, 81, of Ladue, chairman of Granite City Steel from 1988 to 1975, died Saturday, Nov. 9, 1991, at St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis County.

He is survived by his wife, Vardi (Marshall) Veeder; two sons, Nicholas P. Veeder Jr. of Boston and Greig Marshall Veeder of Denver; and two grandchildren, Nicholas and Greig Veeder.

Funeral services will be held today (Wednesday) at 2:30 p.m. at Ladue Chapel Presbyterian Church, 9450 Clayton Road, Ladue. His remains will be cremated.

Memorials may be made to St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, 245 Union Blvd., St. Louis 63108 or the charity of one's choice.

Jesse Forrester

Jesse D. Forrester Sr., 50, of Dupu died Sunday, Nov. 10, 1991, at Memorial Hospital in Belleville.

Mr. Forrester was born Aug. 9, 1941, in Cairo, Ill. He was employed by Standard Slag Co. in Granite City and was a member of Local 520, International Operating Engineers, Mitchell.

Survivors include his wife, Mary E. (Jackson) Forrester; three sons, Jesse D. Forrester Jr. of Valmeyer, Jeffrey Forrester of St. Louis and D. Forrester at home; three daughters, Angie M. Dotson of Valmeyer, Melissa Schmid of Cahokia and Shara E. LaFoster, at home; his mother, Della (Dick) Forrester of Dupu; and seven grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his father, Wesley D. Forrester, and one grandson.

Visitation was held Tuesday at Braun Colonial Funeral Home, 3701 Falling Springs Road, Cahokia, where services will be conducted at 2 p.m. today (Wednesday) by the Rev. John Myler. Burial will follow at Valhalla Gardens of Memory in Belleville.

Needleman's results, U.S. EPA formed an expert panel to review his study.

That panel concluded that the study was so statistically flawed that the results neither supported nor refuted his hypothesis.

But the panel's strongly negative report was quashed by EPA in 1984.

"It was unbelievable," Scarr, who served on the earlier panel as well, has been quoted as saying. "It was all engineered by the EPA."

Because the results of the Needleman study are the basis for CDC's revised "safe" threshold, and will result in an estimated tenfold increase in the number of children being classified in the concern range, Ernhart and Scarr argue that funds which would otherwise be appropriated to other public programs, such as Head Start, prenatal care, drug treatment and vaccinations, will be diverted to lead abatement, prevention and treatment projects.

"No matter how they are implemented, (treatment) programs will surely divert resources from other programs that do benefit children, most particularly our disadvantaged children," the Ernhart and Scarr paper states.

inhaled. It is best to vacuum when children and pregnant women are out of the house.

Vacuum cleaners with beater brushes are most effective in the removal of lead dust.

After vacuuming, window sills and window wells located underneath windows should be wiped with a phosphate-containing detergent.

Surfaces, especially those accessible to youngsters, should be wiped from top to bottom, and cleaning rags should be disposed of after use. Gloves and eye protection are suggested during this activity, because detergents can irritate the skin.

Any leaded stained glass should be sealed.

Small areas of paint not firmly attached to the underlying surface should be removed. Moisture and gently remove the paint by scraping. Sanding and heat removal methods cause dust and lead fumes, and thus are not recommended.

Place children's furniture and lead fumes, and thus are not recommended.

For numerous areas of chipped paint, more precautions are necessary. The IDPH publication "Planning the Lead-Based Paint Abatement Project" should be consulted before tackling any large-scale removal project.

Abatement should be done and cribs away from unsafe areas, such as chipped walls and window wells.

Use only residential paint in the home. The Consumer Product Safety Commission regulates the levels of lead in residential paint, but industrial paint and coatings still may contain high levels of lead.

Keep personal items carried to and from the work place away from children.

Laundry work clothes of family members who are employed in lead-related industry separately.

Store these clothes in a sealed container prior to washing, and don't shake them to remove dust. After washing, clean the machine of residue by running a cycle while the tub is empty before another load is washed.

Many home contact leaded components or leaded solder in the plumbing. Water should be removed by reverse osmosis or distillation.

Allowing tap water to run for a few seconds before using can flush away water which may have come into contact with leaded plumbing components.

This procedure should be followed first thing in the morning, after work, after vacations and after long periods of disuse. Cold water only should be used for consumption and cooking, especially in the preparation of baby formulas.

Veeder

A pitcher of water obtained from freshly flushed pipes may be kept in the refrigerator for drinking.

Aerators and screens on spigots should be cleaned regularly.

Filters on furnaces and air conditioning should be replaced at least once every month.

Colored paper and painted wood should not be burned in stoves or fireplaces, as they can create lead fumes.

Porches and sidewalks should be hosed down weekly. Play areas should be kept well sodded to help prevent contamination of lead from soil.

Windows should be kept closed on windy days to prevent airborne dirt from entering the home.

Garden soil should be periodically tested for pH levels and phosphorus content. Neutral pH levels and optimum amounts of phosphorus can reduce the amount of lead uptake in certain plants.

Children should not be allowed to play near areas where demolition, rehabilitation or sandblasting is occurring or has occurred.

Personal Hygiene—Hands and faces should be washed frequently, especially before meals. Children's nails should be cut and cleaned often.

Children's blood lead levels should be tested annually, preferably during the summer months. Adults who work in lead-related industry should also be tested.

Persons who work in lead-related industry should shower after work, especially before contact with children.

Refrain from eating, drinking or smoking in areas where lead is used.

Children should not be allowed to play in vehicles that may contain lead brought home from the work place.

Toys and other objects frequently handled by children should be cleaned often. Play with toys not labeled as nontoxic should be discouraged.

Food should not be heated or stored in ceramic containers, which may contain pigments that are leaded.

Foods packaged in leaded cans should be avoided. Lead cans are usually three pieces soldered together. The seam on the side of the can (under the label) is often a wide, dentured area containing lead solder. Two-piece cans with a rounded bottom edge are lead free.

Food should not be stored in cans that have been opened. Lead-free glass is ideal for food storage.

Children should not eat food dropped to the floor or ground, even after washing. Rinsing food with water may not remove leaded dust.

In areas known to contain high levels of lead in soil, outer layers of garden vegetables should be removed and discarded. Rinsing garden vegetables with a 1 percent vinegar solution may help reduce exterior lead contamination.

Gardens should be planted away from roadways and painted structures.

Nutrition—Because children absorb lead more readily on an empty stomach or when the diet is filled with high-fat foods, high iron foods (lean meat, fish, eggs, beans, peas, peanut butter and raisins) and calcium rich foods (milk products and green vegetables) should be encouraged for meals and snacks.

Foods containing vitamin C (citrus, green vegetables and potatoes with skins) improve the concentration of iron in blood.

Snacks provided throughout the day satisfy youngsters' need to chew and reduces their interest in placing non-food items in the mouth.

Children should be discouraged from eating snow or icicles, and from drinking runoff water.

Areas with acidic rain can leach lead from building solders, putty, caulk, roofing and gutters.

Children should not be left unsupervised in areas where they may find and eat lead-based paint.

For more information, contact the IDPH Division of Environmental Health at (217) 782-5830, or the Edwardsville Regional IDPH office at 656-6680.

from five. The community in the five-county area with the biggest increase last year in the eight major crime report categories was Carlinville. Reports there jumped 50 percent to 153 from 102.

Edwardsville showed a 20 percent decrease in major crimes. The 539 reported crimes were down from 681 in 1989, with criminal sexual assaults decreasing to four from 10.

Warning issued on prescription drug mixing

The average "healthy" senior citizen today takes 11 different prescription drugs and numerous other over-the-counter drugs each year. But careless mixing of prescription drugs may result in serious illness, a prolonged hospital stay, or even death, according to a Brigham Young University health science professor.

"These supposedly safe drugs include such powerful substances as cardiovascular and pulmonary medications, blood thinners, blood-pressure drugs, antibiotics, and diabetes medications," said Dr. Richard Hurley. "These drugs may not complement each other, nor do they necessarily agree with every person's physiology and metabolism."

Hurley explains how to lessen the chances of experiencing a dangerous drug reaction or interaction in the October 1991 issue of The Ensign, a publication of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

1. Before you begin a drug regimen, ask your doctor if there are any alternative (non-drug) treatments that might help your condition. Begin long-term drug treatment only after you have explored all other alternatives.

2. Make sure you understand your doctor's instructions about new prescriptions before you leave his office. Don't be afraid to ask questions. Ask what the medication is supposed to do and what possible side effects you might experience; be sure you understand the dosage instructions.

3. Coordinate all medications through one physician. If this isn't possible, make sure each of your doctors is aware of all the other medications you are taking. When you start a new medication, ask your doctor if there is any other medication you should eliminate.

4. Select a reputable pharmacy that keeps a cumulative record of all the medications you are taking and has a complete record of any adverse reactions you may have had in the past. When choosing a pharmacy, ask pharmacists if they have a computer program to identify possible drug interactions. You may pay slightly more for this service, but it could save your life.

5. Ask the pharmacist for any written information available on new prescriptions you are taking. If you have questions, ask the pharmacist until you understand instructions completely.

6. Follow your doctor's and pharmacist's instructions exactly. It does make a difference how and when you take medication. If you have any questions, contact your doctor or pharmacist immediately.

7. As you take medication, watch carefully for any side effects. Report anything unusual — a rash, dizziness or light-headedness, numbness or tingling — to your doctor immediately. Do not suddenly stop taking ing medication without contacting your doctor.

8. If you take several medications, it's a good idea to have a "brown bag" session with your doctor once a year. Put all your prescriptions, over-the-counter medications, herbs, and vitamins in a bag and take them to his or her office. Discuss all the medications to see if you should eliminate any.

Flyers' defense breaks open close game, 27-7

By Mike Kelly

MOLINE — The final score was misleading. East St. Louis was considered a heavy favorite against Moline (8-3) on Saturday in the second round of the Illinois Class 6A playoffs. The Flyers won 27-7, but they needed a big play from defensive end Dennis Stallings to break open a close game. With the Flyers (10-1) leading 13-7 late in the third quarter, Stallings sacked quarterback Matt Dannenfeldt, forcing a fumble which Dwight Allen recovered and gave ESL possession at Moline's 25. Chris Moore (158 yards on 22 carries) scored four plays later on a seven-yard run to make things comfortable. East St. Louis will now host Downers Grove North in the quarterfinals Saturday at Clyde Jordan Stadium. "Dennis has an outstanding game," Flyers coach Bob Shannon said. "It was only fitting he made the big play. We needed something to slow down their momentum." Stallings was a thorn in (See FLYERS, Page 48)

Given the 20-year history of the state soccer tournament, it's somewhat surprising that the Collinsville Kahoks were not favored to win the 1991 title. Southern teams — i.e. the Warriors and Kahoks — had won 12 of the 19 previous state championships. Yet most observers at the tournament, held in St. Charles, considered the host Saints as the team to beat. The Saints, who took third when the Warriors won last year and had lost just one game during the regular season, figured to have a decided advantage since they were playing on their home field at Norris Stadium. But the Kahoks were ready for them.

State soccer tournament

After cruising to 4-1 and 3-1 victories over Brother Rice of Chicago and Conant of Hoffman Estates, respectively, CHS nipped the Saints 1-0 on Saturday night to win its third state championship in 10 years. "It took forever for that clock to tick down," said Kahoks coach Ron Rowan, a Granite City native. "It seemed like it was always on eight minutes. When we got a couple of throw-ins in a row, it ate the clock. When the ball was cleared and the clock showed zero-zero, I went crazy." Against Brother Rice in the quarterfinals on Friday, the Kahoks played a defensive first quarter in an effort to evaluate the Crusaders' offense, which was led by 40-goal scorer Billy Savarino. After a scoreless first quarter, CHS went up 3-0 within a span of 4:32 in the second quarter. Brian Reeves, Derek Cooper and Steve Van Dyke provided the goals.

Steve Van Dyke, who scored a goal in each game at the state finals, controls the ball for Collinsville against Jason Maxfield of the Warriors.

Van Dyke received some luck on his goal. Kevin Kriemeyer's centering pass deflected off the legs of official Sam Donnelly and made a beeline for Van Dyke, who scored past Crusaders goalkeeper Paul Rosciari. E.J. Carrick scored a penalty-kick goal for Brother Rice late in the third quarter, but the Kahoks reclaimed their three-goal lead when Matt Chandler outran a Crusaders player to the ball and scored from 20 yards out midway through the fourth quarter.

In the third quarter, CHS really applied the pressure. A shot by Tino Galvan was stopped by Cougar goalkeeper Ryan Webb, but Jason Digrolamo settled the rebound. His blast was stopped, but not controlled by Webb. The ball bounced right back to Digrolamo, who then scored. The Kahoks went up 3-0 late in the third quarter. Van Dyke's corner kick was headed on goal by a CHS player. The ball hit (See SOCCER, Page 48)

Archway winners — Six bowlers from Bowland finished well in a Junior Archway tournament held Oct. 26. Tom Partl Jr. (bottom right) was the youngest to place at age 10 in the Majors Division. Bobby Bonds (bottom left) took third as well as bowling a perfect game and being high qualifier in the Classic Division. Jason Stroud (far left) took fourth in the Masters Division. Mike Noble (center) took fourth in the Classic Division. John Cozlar (second from right) took second in the Masters Division. Scott Kuhn (far right) took seventh in the Masters Division.

Mendenhall strikes again — Tammy Mendenhall of Granite City won the IYBT Belleville Open on Oct. 27 at St. Clair Bowl. She bowled 12 games with a 188 average. In the finals, she had games of 205, 186 and 168 before bowling 194 in the championship game. She received a trophy, a T-shirt, a banner and a scholarship. Mendenhall also rolled a 700 series (256, 218, 262) Oct. 26 at AMF Dick Weber Lanes.

Ring of honor — Jason Wonders was presented with a ring from Bowland recently for the 802 series he rolled during the summer Youth Adult League. Wonders is from St. Louis and bowls in several leagues at Bowland.

Bowlers of the Year — Jason Stroud (left) of Bowland has been named Bowler of the Year from Archway Tournaments. Shelly Goleman, also of Bowland, has been named Bowler of the Year from Gateway Tournaments.

Sack lunches should be more than a bunch of bologna

By Jane Cosby
Correspondent

A bologna sandwich with mustard was the staple of my sack lunch when I was going to school. To this day I still have difficulty facing bologna.

Because my mother was frequently preparing seven or eight lunches at one time, I can forgive and understand her lack of creativity in this endeavor.

But most parents today are not involved in assembly-line lunch preparation. A little thought and attention to detail is not out of the question.

"The Creative Lunchbox," by Ellen Klavan (Crown Publishers, $7.00) offers suggestions that if followed could make your child's lunchbox contents the envy of all his friends.

Klavan offers general lunchbox wisdom and some lunchbox-approved recipes.

If you want your child to eat his lunch, you must send him to school with food he likes, Klavan says.

Your child will eat only food he feels comfortable eating in front of his friends. Any food he considers weird, even if he likes it, will not be taken out of the lunchbox in front of others, she says.

Klavan advises that you consult your child before you get too creative. Let him help in packing and preparing his lunch.

The lunchbox is not the place for surprise food, Klavan says. Try out new dishes at home before packing them in the lunchbox, she says.

Consider your child's eating habits. Is he a fast eater and usually wants to get out to the playground as quickly as possible? Then pack food that can be eaten quickly and easily, or he may just pitch it in his rush to play.

If your child likes to linger and chat with friends over lunch, you can pack foods that may take longer to eat, like salads, hot leftovers or vegetables and dip.

To ensure that your child's lunch does not spoil, use an ice pack, Klavan says. If your child likes to snack on the way home from school, include something in his lunch to eat at that time. But tell him which foods should be eaten at lunch only and not held until late afternoon, she says.

Under the "Add Some Fun" heading, Klavan suggests trying the lunch with a bow, using stickers to live it up, saving and inserting condiments from fast food restaurants, using decorated napkins, and writing your child a special note from home and slipping it in with his lunch.

Recipe Ideas:

- Use alternatives to sliced bread to make sandwiches: toasted English muffins, biscuits, croissants, matzos, pita bread, bagels, rice cakes, crackers, muffins and quick breads, hamburger or hot dog buns, or tortillas.

- Give your child a choice of ingredients to make a salad for himself. Possible alternatives: lettuce, spinach, cabbage, watercress, sliced carrots, cucumbers, mushrooms, radishes, tomatoes, diced red or green pepper, artichoke hearts, string beans, sprouts, peas, nuts, cooked chicken, turkey, or ham and cheese.

- Separate the greens from the rest of the ingredients, then toss the dressing on everything but the greens. Your child can add the greens right before he eats.

- Roll up your child's favorite sandwich spread inside a lettuce leaf.

- Mix together assorted breakfast cereals, sesame seeds, peanuts, raisins, coconut and carob chips. This mixture can be stored up to two months and you can dole out this GORP as needed.

- Melt 1 1/2 tbsp. of margarine, then stir in 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese and 1 tsp. chili powder. Pour this mixture over 4 cups popped popcorn. This nacho popcorn is healthy as well as convenient, and will store for a week in the refrigerator.

Finally, do not assume because the lunchbox is coming home empty that lunch is being consumed. Your child could have tossed or traded it away, Klavan says. If so, you will just have to try harder.

Jane Cosby is a former teacher and the mother of two.

Grace Baptist sets fall crusade

Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., will be holding a fall crusade on Sunday, Nov. 17, through Wednesday, Nov. 20. The crusade is part of the church's 34th anniversary celebration.

Services will begin at 9:30 a.m. with Sunday school for every age group. The morning worship service will begin at 10:30. Evening services will be held at 7 p.m. each night, Sunday through Wednesday.

The guest evangelist will be the Rev. David Butler of Kentucky. He has pastored some of the leading churches in the states of Kentucky and Tennessee, and is a much sought-after evangelist and speaker.

Grace Baptist has had Butler on two previous occasions and he continues to be a favorite.

Dr. Bob Jones, pastor of the church, stated, "David Butler is one of the most eloquent, gifted, and refined preachers that I have ever had the privilege of hearing, and yet his messages are always simple, clear and plain. He speaks in a way that the message of the gospel can be heard and understood by both adults and children. He preaches the Bible, as it is, to people as they are."

Included in the church celebration will be a children's carnival for all the children of the church and community who attend Sunday school on Nov. 17.

Transportation can be arranged by calling the church office at 877-6672.

Other activities include an "old fashioned night" on Tuesday, Nov. 19, with southern gospel singing, preaching and country cooking. The fellowship hall of the church will be decorated with antiques in a country decor. Those attending are encouraged to wear old-fashioned clothing.

The cost for church members is $2 per person or $7 per family. All visitors are special guests and eat free. However, reservations must be secured by calling the church office no later than noon on Monday, Nov. 18. The meal will be served between 5:30 and 6:15 p.m. to be followed by a pre-service gospel concert at 6:30 p.m.

Ladies Coterie plans silent auction

The Ladies Coterie met Oct. 19 at Niedringhaus Methodist Church. A dessert luncheon was served to 19 members by Marguerite Lexow, hostess.

Virginia Oram, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Barbara Williams.

Williams, a retired teacher, was employed 35 years in the Venice School District. She has traveled extensively and her topic was a description of her experiences traveling through Russia and other parts of the Soviet Union. She displayed many photographs that, at times, proved both enlightening and amusing.

Elizabeth Briggs, president, called the meeting to order and led the Club Collect and Pledge of Allegiance.

Shirley Schwendemann, program chairman, announced

PSOP trip set

Belleville Area College's Programs and Services for Older Persons will sponsor a trip that includes a Christmas luncheon at the colonial Westerfield House, and tours of the Wuest Farm Home and Mr. Frederick's Victorian Shop Nov. 20.

The cost of the trip and lunch is $25.

A bus will leave from the Caseyville Center, 1001 Bunkum Road in Fairview Heights, at 10:35 a.m. and return at approximately 3:20 p.m.

For reservations and information, call 234-4410, ext. 17.

plans for the Christmas party to be held at Central Christian Church. Reservations will be accepted at the November meeting.

Several officers attended the 22nd District meeting of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs on Oct. 5 at Our Lady of the Snows Shrine. They also participated in the federation's annual fall meeting on Oct. 10 at Mascoutah.

Those taking part included Briggs, who reported on both meetings, Esther Vasileff and Helen Friedman.

A "silent auction" will be held at the Nov. 21 meeting at Niedringhaus Methodist Church. Helen Toncoff and Bess Henley will be in charge and proceeds from the auction will be added to the Scholarship Fund. Pearl Alborn will serve as hostess.

Expansion set at AMVETS Post

AMVETS Post 204 in Madison has contracted with Korte-Flocher Construction Co. Inc. to construct an addition to the Post's building at 1711 Kennedy Drive and to renovate the existing structure.

The architect for the project is Environs Architects/Planners of Collinsville.

The total cost of the project will be $170,000.

The new addition will comprise 2,670 square feet and will provide a larger meeting room for the AMVETS post as well as additional storage space.

The addition will extend from the east end of the existing building and will include a new entrance to the meeting room.

The new structure will be a pre-engineered steel building to match the existing building.

The drywall interior will be covered with a vinyl composition tile that will be extended from the original meeting room.

Renovation of the existing structure will include the removal of ceilings and ceiling insulation and the installation of a new ceiling system and roof insulation.

Colorful fruit finds favor

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

Much has been made of advice to eat an apple a day — from the Garden of Eden right down to today. Apples aren't the only fruit in the limelight. Directives for good health recommend eating five fruits and vegetables every day. A bowl of fruit, always on the counter, proves what Adam found out, that fruit is easy to take with you when you are on the move.

Dried fruits make handy snacks and are touted easily to the office or in a school lunch box. Cliff Stebe, who heads the produce department at Dierbergs Markets, says more people are buying a wider variety of them.

"Dried pears, nectarines and peaches are being chosen, with people getting away from apricots only," he says. "Traditionally, from September through December is when we see the sales. Figs and dates fall mostly in the same category as they are used for baking."

People may joke about Granny's supply of prunes, but chopped, pitted, dried prunes provide fiber for any age and can be combined with other dried fruits and nuts as a snack or a topper for cereal. Prunes whirled with strawberries, bananas and yogurt in a blender make an instant breakfast.

Roasted pork with spicy apricots

- 1 cup plus 2 tbsp. low-sodium chicken broth
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp. cloves
- Pinch cumin
- 1 1/2 lb. pork loin, rolled, tied
- 2 tsp. olive oil
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 tsp. minced garlic
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup julienne dried apricots
- 1/4 cup sliced almonds, toasted
- 1 tsp. grated orange peel
- 2 tsp. chopped fresh leaf cilantro

Salt and pepper to taste

Combine two tablespoons chicken broth with cinnamon, cloves and cumin. Rub over pork, reserving any leftover rub. Refrigerate meat 4 hours or overnight. In skillet over high heat, heat 1 teaspoon oil. Brown pork on all sides. Put in roasting pan. Roast in 350° oven about 40 minutes until internal temperature of pork reaches 150° for medium-rare.

In same skillet over medium heat, add remaining 1 teaspoon oil. Sauté onion and garlic. Add remaining rub mixture, juice, remaining 1 cup broth, Worcestershire sauce and water. Bring to boil. Reduce heat. Simmer 10 minutes.

Add apricots. Simmer 5 minutes. Stir in almonds and orange peel. Remove from heat. Stir in cilantro. Season with salt and pepper.

Serve apricot sauce over sliced pork.

Makes six (4-ounce) servings.

too. Apricots, expensive and fragile when fresh, are a mainstay when dried. Stebe says they have become the best seller year-round, with consistent quality and prices. In small pieces, they can be used in muffins and quick breads for munching any time of day. They can be warmed with canned mixed fruit in maple syrup, then spooned over waffles or French toast. To make an hors d'oeuvre, top one whole apricot with light cream cheese and chopped nuts. Chop dried figs to use instead of raisins in a favorite bran muffin recipe. They are moist and chewy. Stuff the hollowed-out core of an apple with a mixture of figs, cinnamon, grated lemon peel and orange juice, then microwave until tender for a sweet, healthy and filling treat. "Apples are getting bigger and bigger with all the new varieties," Stebe says. They continue to be plentiful in many, many varieties. Bartlett pears are at the end of their harvest, but Anjou and other winter varieties are expected to replace them in generous quantities.

Sliced, they can be dipped in low-fat vanilla, lemon or honey-sweetened plain yogurt for a refreshing snack. For a new twist, toast slices of bread on one side under a broiler. Butter the other side and spread with jellied cranberry sauce. Arrange sliced pears on top, sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon and broil until bubbly.

Feel free to exchange fruits. For instance, almost any crisp or cobbler that calls for a summer fruit can use pears or apples in its place.

Bountiful brunch cake

- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 can (12 oz.) evaporated milk
- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup pecan pieces
- 2 tsp. vanilla
- 6 fresh bosc or comice pears, peeled, cored, cut in half (see note)
- 1/2 cup water
- 10 marshmallow cherries, cut in half
- 3 cups buttermilk baking mix
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup shortening

In small saucepan, combine brown sugar, 1/2 cup evaporated milk, corn syrup and butter. Bring mixture to boil over medium-low heat. Boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in pecans and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour into greased and floured 13-by-9-inch pan. Arrange pear and cherry halves cut-side up on caramel sauce. Cool 10 minutes.

In mixing bowl, combine baking mix, eggs, remaining 1/2 cup evaporated milk, sugar, water, shortening and remaining 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat on medium speed until smooth. Four over cooled caramel sauce and fruit. Bake 30 to 35 minutes at 400° until cake tests done.

Immediately invert pan on serving platter. Serve warm.

Makes 12 servings. Note: Two cans (16 ounces each) pear halves, drained, reserving liquid, may be used instead of fresh pears. Use reserved liquid in place of water.

Apricot-applesauce cake

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup whole wheat flour
- 2 tsp. allspice
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup applesauce
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 cup diced, dried apricots
- 1/2 cup chopped almonds
- Confectioner's sugar

Grease 12-cup tube or fluted pan. Combine all-purpose and whole wheat flours, allspice and baking soda.

In large bowl, using mixer at low speed, cream sugar and shortening. Beat in applesauce and eggs until fluffy. Add flour mixture. Beat at medium speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in apricots and almonds. Pour batter into pan. Bake 35 to 40 minutes at 350° until top springs back when touched lightly with finger. Cool cake in pan 10 minutes.

Invert on serving platter. Dust lightly with confectioner's sugar.

Fresh apple muffins

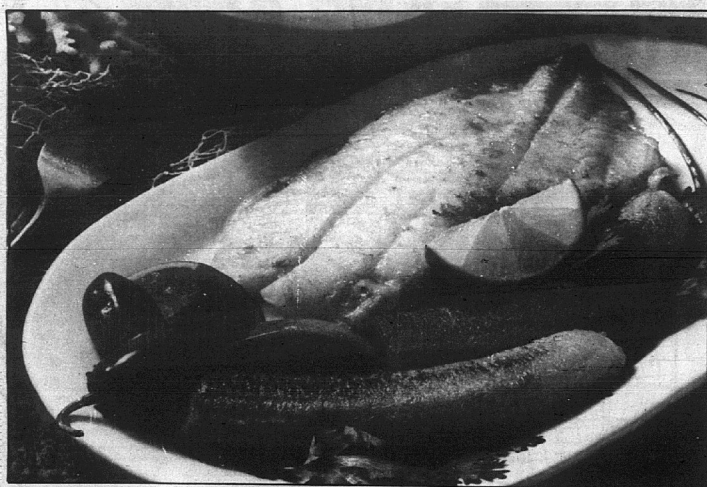

- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 cup oil
- 1 cup grated apple
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt

Combine 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, brown sugar and nuts to make topping.

Combine egg, milk, oil and apple. Combine flour, granulated sugar, baking powder, salt and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Combine with milk mixture just until flour is moistened.

Fill greased or paper-lined muffin cups two-thirds full. Sprinkle with topping. Bake at 375° for 20 to 25 minutes.

Note: For kitchen-like muffins, increase topping mixture to 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 cup packed brown sugar and 1/2 cup chopped walnuts. Fill muffin cups with half batter, sprinkle with half the topping, then repeat.

Spicy Island Fish Saute uses bananas for a slightly sweet flavor that balances herbs and spices.

Fish, fruit turn common flavors into intriguing island venture

Spicy Island Fish Saute is a quick one-skillet entree with a dash of the exotic.

Savory, sweet and zesty flavors are combined in an intriguing melange that includes sautéed fruit.

Fish filets of choice are marinated in fresh lime juice, garlic, ginger root and cilantro, with a bit of cayenne to add to taste a hint of fire.

Fish and bananas are sautéed in the same skillet and, when served together, make a wonderful complementary flavor combination.

For sauteing, choose firm bananas with a hint of green at the tip, so they hold their texture.

Spicy island fish saute

- 2 white fish filets (about 1/2 lb.), such as orange roughy or sole
- 1 lime
- 1 clove garlic, pressed
- 2 tsp. minced ginger root
- 1 tsp. minced fresh cilantro
- 1/4 to 1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper
- 2 firm, medium bananas, peeled
- 2 tsp. margarine

Squeeze juice from lime into small bowl. Combine with garlic, ginger root, cilantro and cayenne.

Place fish in shallow glass casserole dish.

Pour lime mixture over fish. Refrigerate, covered, at least 15 minutes or as long as overnight.

Remove fish from marinade. In same skillet, sauté fish, covered and turning once, 7 to 10 minutes.

Remove fish to serving plate with bananas.

Teens need guidance, example, access to lots of healthy food

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

The way to fill a teen's need for nutrition is by loading both hands with good foods at the same time and sending him off to his next event, a youth nutrition expert from Little Rock, Ark., told the St. Louis Dietetic Association last month.

Dr. Margaret Bogle, director of clinical nutrition and research at Arkansas Children's Hospital and Department of Pediatrics, says, "Our whole lifestyle image is fast, faster and fastest. Children do things simultaneously. Access has a lot to do with it."

Children through their teens suffer from a quagmire of eating problems. They range from meals that are extravagant in calories to the opposite dilemma of an exaggerated emphasis on thinness. While she aims to keep children eating meals in which no more than 30 percent of calories come from fat, she thinks the numbers of seriously obese children may be exaggerated.

"Many children are growing so fast and so active that in many cases it is hard to get in enough calories," she said.

Bogle is setting up a public school eating program in Little Rock in which children are served one or two meals at school, then the family is offered meal plans and recipes for eating at home, too.

"We want them to have a good overall nutritional average over a week, two weeks, three weeks," she said. "This issue involves the whole school. It is something that you cope with at school, but then do you eat anything you want at home?"

At school, the cooks need to be convinced that the program is good for children. Bogle said, "We work with menus that schools already have in place and then provide them with recipes. We need to provide them with the means so they don't dump in butter or margarine just because they have it. The tradition here always has been that if a little is good, then more is better."

Children are at a challenging age for meal planners. Decreasing red meat may lead to a decrease in fat, but the cost often is iron deficiency. At junior and senior high school ages, young people need lots of calcium and iron without excess fat. Skin milk fulfills these requirements, but Bogle questions whether teenagers will drink it.

Home eating patterns should be consistent with what the child is learning about nutrition at school.

Some pregnant teens seem to tell themselves that if they do not eat, they will not gain weight and therefore the pregnancy will go away.

Home eating patterns should be consistent with what the child is learning about nutrition at school.

"It is incredible in obesity programs that parents still have available and eat in front of the children the very foods that we are trying to have the kids cut down on," she said.

She recommends maintaining a middle-of-the-road approach. Instead of insisting on nonfat plain yogurt, settle for low-fat yogurt in a fruit flavor. A nutritious snack can be an apple—increasingly a favorite among children and teens—or other fruit and reduced-fat cheese.

Bogle said, "Kids will eat raw vegetables, but they won't dig them out of the hydrator out of some brown plastic bag. They need to be ready to grab them. They are not concerned with nutrition, just how they look, and don't associate the two."

While milk products are the food of choice for calcium, broccoli and spinach also are lesser sources of calcium. For beverages, keep plenty of fruit juice and milk around and encourage drinking water. Frequent use of carbonated beverages reduces absorption of calcium.

Bogle's work includes overseeing a clinic for pregnant women. Young patients often do not follow guidelines for eating healthy foods for their own as well as their babies' benefit. She said they seem to tell themselves that if they do not eat, they will not gain weight and therefore the pregnancy will go away.

The use of steroids is a physical abuse that teenagers also do not want to take seriously.

She said, "They don't consider them a drug and certainly not an abusive drug."

Select foods, company they keep

Foods that are high in complex carbohydrates top the list of what people should eat today.

Fortunately, some of these foods—pasta, breads, fruits in season, baked potatoes—are foods many people love to eat.

The best way to eat them is to take care that the company they keep—such as sauces—are nutritious and low in fat, too.

Here are some suggestions for keeping meals this way:

• Serve spaghetti with meatballs or meat sauces made with lean meat or poultry, rather than a fatty cream sauce.

• When making sandwiches, choose a whole grain bread plus lean cuts of meat, poultry and fish. Spread it with mustard or fat-free mayonnaise, rather than butter or margarine.

• Choose a single topping, such as low-fat sour cream or plain yogurt with chives, to top a baked potato.

Enjoy fruit often for dessert. Serve it plain or with a dressing or dip made with nonfat or low-fat yogurt.

One-pot dishes like jambalaya make a family—including the cook—feel satisfied and delighted with preparation and flavor.

A few snips of new flavors send rice dish across world

Typically, one of the family cook's biggest complaints is not having all ingredients readily available for a handy single-pot recipe. That is why versatile jambalaya-paella is such a taste-ful and unique alternative.

Created to utilize a variety of fresh and prepared ingredients to vary flavors, as well as personality, of the dish, this recipe can be augmented to create either traditional New Orleans-style jambalaya or Spanish Paella. Best yet, the ingredients are all low in fat and calories.

Spanish flavor comes from saffron or turmeric, while oregano influences it with a totally different, New Orleans character. Vary the fresh seafood and canned tuna, salmon and oysters to design an individual taste sensation.

A one-pot meal like this spicy specialty is relatively hassle- and mess-free, which makes it wonderful for a group dinner or a homey event.

Jambalaya or Paella one-pot meal

- 1 cup uncooked brown or white rice, or a mixture of both
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 to 2 tsp. olive oil
- 2 to 3 cloves garlic, minced

- 1/2 cup chopped red or yellow onion
- 1 rib celery, sliced
- 1 medium green or red bell pepper, sliced
- 1 can (16 oz.) stewed tomatoes or 1 cup diced fresh tomato
- 1/4 tsp. pepper sauce, if desired
- 1 tsp. saffron, turmeric or leaf oregano
- 8 thin slices spicy sausage, such as chorizo or Italian sausage
- 1 can (12 oz.) white or light tuna
- 1 can (8 1/2 oz.) boneless salmon (red or pink)
- 1 can (8 oz.) oysters, boiled or smoked
- 1 lb. medium shrimp, mussels or

clams, uncooked
Place rice in sieve under cold water until water runs clear. In large skillet or paella pan, heat oil. Sauté garlic, onion, celery and bell pepper about 3 minutes, just until softened. Add tomatoes, pepper sauce, saffron and sausage. Bring to boil. Reduce heat. Simmer, covered, about 25 minutes. Arrange seafood over rice. Heat, covered, 4 to 5 minutes until cooked through. Toss with fork, if desired, to fluff rice and distribute seafood. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Recipe

Mexicali vegetable microwave main dish

- 2 cans (15 oz. each) black beans, undrained
- 1 pkg. (1.25 oz.) taco seasoning mix
- 3 cups broccoli florets and thinly sliced stalks
- 1/4 cup (3 oz.) shredded sharp cheddar cheese
- 2 cups tortilla chips, crushed
- 4 cups finely shredded iceberg lettuce

Combine undrained beans, taco mix and sliced broccoli stalks in 1 1/2-quart microwave-safe dish. Arrange broccoli florets on top, pressing down lightly. Microwave on high power 6 minutes, rotating twice.

Let stand, covered, 3 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese and tortilla chips. Spoon each serving over shredded lettuce. Makes 6 to 8 servings; 191 calories, 13 g protein, 7 g fat, 27 g carbohydrate, 625 mg sodium and 11 mg cholesterol each, based on 6 servings.

Corn relish macaroni salad

- 1 cup uncooked elbow macaroni
- 2 cans (12 oz. each) whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 green bell pepper, chopped
- 1/4 cup sliced green onion with tops,

- or 1 medium red onion, chopped
- 2 medium tomatoes, chopped
- 1 cup pimiento sauce
- 1/4 cup oil
- 1 tbsp. lime or lemon juice
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/2 tsp. leaf oregano, crushed
- 1/2 tsp. salt

Cook macaroni according to package directions. Cool. Combine macaroni, corn, celery, green pepper, green onion and tomatoes in large bowl. Combine pimiento sauce, oil, lime juice, garlic, oregano and salt. Pour over salad. Toss to blend. Chill at least 3 hours or up to 24 hours. Makes 8 to 10 servings, about 8 1/2 cups salad.

Cauliflower Garden With Mustard Dill Sauce has fresh appeal for everyone. Microwave cooking assures a tender-crisp texture, which enhances the flavor.

Even autumn garden grows delicious fresh vegetables

Make vegetable part of your everyday routine

One little serving of vegetables gives a powerful nutrient boost. For instance, carrots are packed with vitamin A, bell pepper and cauliflower are great sources of vitamin C and broccoli contributes vitamins A and C and iron. All are low in calories, high in fiber and taste good together.

Still, some people need encouragement when it comes to making vegetables part of their everyday eating routine. Some people have learned to get into the habit of eating more fruits and vegetables by having them handy when a desire for something to munch comes along. When leaving for work or an outing, take along a box of raisins, a can of juice, a banana or carrot sticks.

Some easy cooking tips and a little flavor pizzazz can make a lot of difference, too. Cauliflower Garden With Mustard Dill Sauce is a delicious example. It offers a foolproof microwave cooking method and a zesty sauce for dipping or drizzling.

Cauliflower garden and mustard dill sauce

- 1 head cauliflower
- 1 tsp. instant chicken bouillon
- 1/4 tsp. onion powder
- 3 tbsp. hot water
- 2 cups florets and thinly sliced stalks of broccoli
- 2 cups thinly sliced carrot

- 2 tbsp. chopped red bell pepper
- 1/2 cup reduced-fat mayonnaise
- 1 tbsp. prepared mustard
- 1/2 tsp. dill weed

Remove core from cauliflower. Place cauliflower in 9-inch microwave-safe casserole dish.

Dissolve bouillon and onion powder in hot water. Spoon over cauliflower. Microwave on high 5 minutes, rotating once.

Place broccoli and carrots closely around cauliflower. Microwave, covered, on high power 4 minutes, rotating once. Let stand, covered, 2 minutes.

Combine mayonnaise, mustard and dill. Spoon over vegetables. Garnish with bell pepper.

Makes 8 servings; 40 calories, 2 g protein, 1 g fat, 7 g carbohydrate, 177 mg sodium and 6 mg cholesterol each.

Student named to Who's Who

The 1991 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will include the name of Westminster College senior Jon K. Lostutter of Granite City, who has been chosen as one of the nation's outstanding campus leaders.

He is among 20 Westminster students selected for Who's Who honors.

Lostutter qualified for membership in the annual publication on the basis of scholarship ability, participation in leadership roles and extracurricular activities, citizenship and service to Westminster, and potential for future success.

He joins an elite group of students representing more than 1,400 institutions worldwide who have been honored since 1934.

Lostutter is a 1988 graduate of Granite City High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Lostutter of Granite City. An accounting and business administration major, he attends Westminster on a President's Academic Scholarship.

At Westminster, Lostutter serves as treasurer of the Student Government Association and as a member of the Student Foundation, the Student Alumni Board, the President's Assistants, the Chapel Leadership Council, and Epsilon Beta Alpha national honorary business fraternity.

He is also active in Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity where he has held numerous offices, including treasurer, community service chairman, strategic planning chairman, scholarship chairman, house historian, and master of the ritual.

Red Ribbon Week at Holy Family

Red ribbons were seen everywhere at Holy Family School when students celebrated Red Ribbon Week Oct. 19-26.

Fourth-grade students from Sheila Wagner and Marge Penell's classes were responsible for planning the activities. The fourth-graders tied red ribbons around almost everything inside the school grounds.

Each student and teacher signed a pledge stating "The Choice for Me, Drug Free." The pledges were posted in the hallways for two weeks and then taken to Hook's Drug Store. Hook's will forward the pledges to state authorities informing them that Holy Family School participated in Red Ribbon Week.

During the program, each classroom posted papers written by the students or erected banners, both encouraging the "drug free" choice. All students and staff members wore red ribbons for the entire week and were enthusiastic about the program, school officials said.

The red ribbons were donated to the school by the Granite City Elks Lodge through Bob Mazzeroff.

Selected for symphonic band

Debbie Bass, a freshman from Collinsville, is among the 66 Culver-Stockton College students who have been selected as members of the 1991-92 C-SC Symphonic Band.

The Symphonic Band, directed by Dr. R. Joseph Dieker, associate professor of music, performs selections from a repertoire of band works that vary in form from suites to marches.

This year, Symphonic Band members will not only perform in several formal concerts and college functions, but also will perform in several area high schools.

Inducted into honor society

The Culver-Stockton College chapter of Phi Eta Sigma freshman honor society inducted Nicole Auvergne Schneider of Granite City as one of 18 new members during a ceremony on Oct. 23.

Phi Eta Sigma is a national college scholastic honor society for freshmen. A member of the Association of College Honor Societies, its goal is to encourage and reward high school scholastic attainment among freshmen in institutions of higher learning.

The students who were honored, now sophomores, attained grade point averages of at least 3.5 on a 4.0 scale while freshmen at Culver-Stockton College last semester.

Culver-Stockton College is a four-year, liberal arts college affiliated with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) and is located in Canton, Mo.

FITTINGS AND ALTERATIONS

Bridal attire is manufactured to be custom fitted by a professional seamstress. Seldom does a bridal or bridesmaid gown fit perfectly without needing some type of alterations. To ensure a good fit, follow a few tips:

Most shops charge for alterations. Have a clear understanding of the work that will be required to custom fit your dress and the cost.

ALWAYS wear the proper undergarments for all fittings. Bras, slips, and shoes will affect the fit of a dress.

Do not have your gown custom fitted too early before the wedding. While you must allow for plenty of time for the alterations to be completed, you do not want to be fitted too early in case of weight changes. If your weight tends to fluctuate or you intend on dieting for the wedding, advise the seamstress so allowances can be made.

Fit is as important as style. You can have quality work done by professionals at reasonable prices.

Travelers can see the 'last frontier'

Alaska, the great land, has beckoned many a traveler with her northern call. You should consider the Journals' 1992 Grand Alaska Tour to be your invitation to explore this last frontier.

The Journals' Alaska Tour departs July 4 when the season is at its peak and the weather is nearly perfect. Combining the famous Inside Passage cruise with 10 days in the interior, it is more than just a cruise but an experience of a lifetime.

Places to be visited include Fairbanks for gold mining, Denali National Park and Mount McKinley for flightseeing, Anchorage, Mount Alyeska, Skagway, Juneau, Glacier Bay, Sitka and many interesting sites and sights too numerous to mention.

A reader writes, "I wish your tour was available last summer. After looking at the Journals' itinerary, I see that we missed many of the most important things to see in Alaska."

The service and accommodations are legendary on the Journals' Grand Tours. The intimacy of a small group of fellow Journals readers traveling on a well-planned itinerary brings a reputation for grandness to these tours. Travelers enjoy a la carte meals, comprehensive sightseeing, evening entertainment and a wide range of services and events.

The Journals offer Grand Tours to Hawaii, Alaska and New England in 1992. For a copy of the free brochure, including a day-by-day itinerary, contact the tour coordinator at 800-333-5910 or write to the tour editor, 134 South County Centerway, St.

On the third day in Alaska, Journals tour members enjoy a fresh salmon dinner. They will feast on fish freshly caught only hours, or maybe even just minutes, before. The feast will be a truly marvelous meal.

Book series for road warriors is often deft, sometimes daft

By Alfred Borcover
Knight-Ridder News Service
People who travel frequently for business deserve sympathy, not envy. Early-morning limo or taxi rides to busy airports, lines at security, flight delays, crowded planes, airline food, long business meetings, quick lunches, cookie-cutter hotel rooms — they all grind down people who travel regularly as part of their jobs. Add to that the challenge of coping in unfamiliar cities. Business travel, to put it mildly, can be a grind.

To help ease the pain, the Wall Street Journal and Fodor's Travel Publications joined forces two years ago to produce the recently published The Wall Street Journal Guides to Business Travel, a three-volume set that covers cities in the U.S., Canada, Europe and the Pacific Rim. Each book costs $20.

The guides could put the joy back into travel, writes Michael Spring, editorial director of Fodor's Travel Publications.

That is a bit of hyperbole, because the only things that could make business travel a joy are chauffeur-driven limousines, luxury hotels, unlimited expense accounts and corporate jets that are ready to fly when you are. Nevertheless, the guides do provide information that's important and helpful. Besides a selective listing of hotels in several price categories, "what the Journal guides do, in addition, is rate each property for 29 services of critical interest to business travelers — from fitness facilities to modem phone jacks, secretarial services, dry-cleaning and pressing, hair dryers and in-room checkout," Spring says.

The hotel chart that accompanies each city listing also rates bed and desk lighting and the desks themselves as well as toiletries, room service and other amenities.

Every property has been reviewed in person virtually always by a long-time resident with an insider's way of looking at things," Spring says. The books list 30 cities in the U.S. and Canada, 31 in Europe and 18 in the Pacific Rim edition.

Included is essential city information, weather, airport and airline listings, ground transportation, addresses and phone numbers for audiovisual rentals, computer rentals, fax services, formalwear rentals, messenger services, taxis, theater tickets, limo services, overnight mail delivery, information hotlines, all-night pharmacies, medical assistance and hair stylists. There are tips on where to shop, jog, tour and drink when there's time to play.

Other information includes time zones, area codes, airline frequent-flyer affiliations, toll-free numbers for airlines, hotels and car rentals and a chart on vintage wines. There are listings of Wall Street Journal Awards for favorite hotels and restaurants.

Historic tour in Independence

In its seventh annual "Spirit of Christmas Past," will feature a holiday tour of historic homes in Independence, Mo. The event will kick-off with a gala progressive dinner Saturday, Nov. 30. Festivities will begin at the 1859 Jail, Marshal's Home and Museum at 6 p.m. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served. Guests will move to the Bingham-Wagoner Estate at 7 p.m. for soup. The main entrée will be served at the National Frontier Trails Center, 318 W. Pacific. Dessert and coffee will be at the Valle-Dewitt Mansions. Tickets are $45.

ST. LOUIS CELEBS

Jeana Haege
Actress

Harry Hamm

Jeana Nicole Haege was born May 4, 1979 in Belleville, Ill. to Bruce Haege, a self-employed upholsterer, and Cindy Haege, a housewife. A straight-A student in the seventh grade at West Junior High School in Belleville, Jeana has a brother, Jason, 16, and a sister, Jaime, 10.

Occupation: Actress, singer and dancer. Jeana, who recently returned home after working in a revival of "Gypsy" in New York City, also has played the roles of the balloon girl and Baby June in a national touring company of the show that played the Muni last year.

Background: Jeana, at age 12, took first place in the tap dancing, song and dance category at a Regency Dance competition in St. Louis. After Jeana's mother read "Kid Biz," a primer for parents considering a career in show business for their children, Jeana and her mother went to New York City in 1988 to look for work. While there the family hired as Jeana's agent "Kid Biz" author Nancy Carson, a New York-based theatrical agent who handles child performers. Although they returned to Belleville the same year, Jeana started work on her first role in "Gypsy" in March 1989. The most exciting part of my career on stage has been: "Traveling, meeting people, making friends and performing at the St. James Theater on Broadway."

The most impressive person I've met is: ("Gypsy" star) Tyne Daly. She always encouraged me and urged me on. She also taught me about poetry and show business. She even threw parties for all the kids in "Gypsy."

The hardest part of performing: "Is leaving your family and friends back home. You can call on the phone and write, but it's not the same as being home."

The most helpful person from my home town was: "Laurie Taylor, one of my dance teachers. She even traveled with me when my mother couldn't."

When I was on Broadway, I was thrilled most by meeting: "Bette Midler, Sandy Duncan and Debbie Gibson. They all came to see "Gypsy" and stopped backstage after the performance."

The most difficult thing for me to accept has been: "Being an understudy for a key role. I waited a year and a half for my first chance at playing Baby June on Broadway."

In the future, I would like to: "Finish high school and then go to a performing arts college. I would like to become an all-purpose entertainer. I'll do anything."

'The Boyfriend' — Kevin Earley and Robin Florence star in "The Boyfriend," playing Nov. 16, 18 and 19 at the Loretto-Hilton Center.

Missouri park to display millions of holiday lights

Tilles Park to be 'Winter Wonderland'

Tilles County Park, at Litzinger and McKnight Road, will present a sparkling "Winter Wonderland" under a canopy of a million twinkling Christmas lights Nov. 29 through Jan. 3 from 6 to 10 p.m. except Saturdays and Dec. 24 and 31.

Admission for the drive-through display is $5 for cars, $20 for small buses, and $50 for large buses, and will be collected at the gate; no advance ticket sales are needed.

This year as an optional alternative, horse-drawn carriage rides through the Winter Wonderland are available for just $5 per person. Advance reservations for the open carriage rides must be made by calling 621-3334. Visitors may get on the carriage at the McCarthy Brothers parking lot off of McKnight Road just 500 feet south of the intersection with Litzinger Road. The 30-minute rides will be available from 6 to 9:30 p.m. every night the event is open.

The drive-through event will include outdoor lighted scenes of Santa and his reindeer, Santa's workshop, the North Pole, Candyland, Carousel, Frosty the Snowman, Charlie Brown and his friends, as well as Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Many new displays will be offered this year, including carolers, Christmas bells and fountains, "Treeland," and the "Little Engine That Could." Christmas lights, giant ornaments and stars will shine from the trees and buildings to add sparkle to the event.

Spectators are invited to drive into the park at the McKnight Road entrance, circle the park, and exit at Litzinger Road. This trip is estimated to take about 15 minutes. Various worthy St. Louis area charities will be collecting admission.

Theater to take it 'To Limit'

The St. Louis Science Center opened its new OMNIMAX Theater with "To The Limit," a spectacular film that takes the audience to the outer edges of physical endurance. The films runs through April 23.

"To The Limit" features three athletes — a rock climber, downhill skier and prima ballerina. The feats of each athlete are interwoven with film footage showing the marvelous workings of the human body as it changes and adapts to meet the demands placed on it. Admission price is $4.75.

The OMNIMAX is a high-fidelity, 70mm motion-picture system that uses state-of-the-art technology to create amazing images of unsurpassed clarity and impact. The images are projected on a four-story-high domed screen which encompasses the audience's entire field of vision, creating the effect of placing them in the middle of the action. The Science Center's OMNIMAX seats 325 people.

Channel 5 keeps TV news stranglehold

Folksy Larry Connors uses different promo approach for newscast

The strangest thing happens, Minnesota wins the World Series, winter comes early, the University of Missouri football team makes a tackle—but, no matter what, the sun rises in the east and KSDK-TV (Channel 5) dominates the news ratings in St. Louis.

Despite the loss of some key people in recent months, Channel 5, which has been one of the most successful stations in the country over the last few years—as judged by Nielsen ratings—rolled to a big lead during the October audience survey.

The station actually increased by 27 percent its numbers for the important 10 p.m. news—gaining an average 24 rating, 37 share. (Rating equals percent of total homes with television that are watching a particular program; share equals percent of homes using television which are tuned to a particular program.)

Well behind with a 17 rating, 27 share was KMOV-TV (Channel 4), despite recent changes in format and the development of a new approach to promo spots for the newscast—more on that later.

Trailing badly is KTVI-TV (Channel 2) with a 9 rating, 14 share. In the early evening newscasts, Channel 5 is even more dominant. At 6 o'clock the station's rating (18) nearly doubles that of Channel 4 (10), with Channel 2 again third (7); and at 5 o'clock, Channel 5 gets a 15 rating, Channel 4 a 9, and Channel 2 a seven.

Now, about those Channel 4 promos: for those of you who haven't noticed, in the programming prior to the station's 10 o'clock newscast, we see a spot in which anchor Larry Connors—who projects a folksy image, anyhow—strolls onto the set and casually addresses the audience about a story or stories upcoming in the newscast.

His manner is conversational and, leaving aside the content for a moment, the style is very winning. It reminds me (not coincidentally, I am sure) of the manner in which you would tell a story to a friend. Actually, if you think about it, that's the way all television news writing ought to be. At least for my money.

Anyway, I think the promos are well executed.

Imagine my surprise when I hear from people who watch television with a discerning eye that the promos are sleazy, sensationalistic and manipulative. (Well, all promos are by definition, manipulative.)

The charge seems to be that the stories, when viewed in the newscast, don't have the importance or the drama that was implied by the promo.

Ian MacBryde

Example: a recent spot trumpeted a story that would tell you how you might be able to avoid cancer by a trip to the grocery store. The story, which, incidentally was the third medical story in the program and, therefore, seemed to take on less importance than the promo would have led us to believe, was about a theory concocted by a doctor that eating right would prevent breast cancer. The story included the information that responsible voices in the medical community did not have much faith in the notion. It certainly did not live up to the promo.

When I first saw the style of the promos I remember saying to a friend that I thought they would help the station's ratings a lot. The friend, who has credentials in broadcasting, said the problem is that the spots make Connors "an actor instead of an anchor." And, once again, the viewers have proven they can make up their own minds.

In keeping with its generally less sensationalistic, more sensible approach to news, Channel 5's recent special reports by Donn Johnson on the high murder rate in the city of St. Louis were informative and presented a nice overview of the problem with some human touches.

Ian MacBryde is an independent video producer and former television executive.
